

Patient information

Hand hygiene: information for patients, families and carers

Clean hands are caring hands, and can help stop infections spreading.

Patients, please protect yourself and others by always washing your hands:

after using the toilet.

after coughing or sneezing.

before eating.

if they look dirty.

Visitors, carers and families, please protect yourself and patients by:

cleaning your hands when you enter or leave a ward or department.

always washing your hands after using the toilet.

always washing your hands before touching food.

How can I clean my hands?

use soap and water.

use alcohol hand rub – found around the hospital.

Please remember:

It is ok to ask a member of staff to clean their hands before they touch or treat you.
